HOW TO SUCCEED

By Former Governor William Sulzer of New York City.

"It is a real pleasure for me to congratulate the Mangin Junior High School Boys on their graduation. Certainly no one wishes them—one and all—more success in their lines of future undertakings than I do.

Our country spells opportunity. The door is never closed to the young man who wants to get on and is determined to make good. Everything depends on the young man himself—on his energy, his honesty, his enthusiasm, his health, and his determination.

My advice to a young man, starting out in the world, is to select some avenue of human endeavor congenial to his hopes and his ambitions, and then follow it without deviation to the end. Sooner or later, he will reach the end, and his efforts will be crowned with glorious success.

Do not try to do many things, because if you do, the chances are you will do none of them well.

Select carefully what you want to do. Stick to it. Do not get discouraged. Learn to do one thing well. Try to be first in that one thing. Make up your mind to know all about it that can be known no matter what it is. By being great in one thing, most people will think you are great in many things.

Only the very few can be great in several things. So select your vocation in life—and keep saying in your mind you are going to be the most successful person in the world in that line of endeavor. If you will stick to it, never lose faith in yourself; never lose sight of your destination; never lose confidence in your ability; the time will come when you will succeed far beyond the dreams of your most sanguine expectations."

HON. MARTIN B. MADDEN, MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM THE FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS, CHAIRMAN OF THE APPROPRIATION COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WAS ACCORDED A WARM RECEPTION BY MANY OF HIS FRIENDS AND CONSTITUENTS ON HIS SHORT VISIT TO THIS CITY THE PAST WEEK.

Congressman Madden spent a busy day in his home district last Sunday. Beginning early in the morning, when he left his rooms at the Union League Club, this champion of human liberty was the center of an endless round of functions. At two o'clock he appeared before the Second Ward Republic Club, where among those present were politicians, precinct committeemen and workers of the First Congressional District, wheelhorses like Senator Ettelson, Alderman Jackson, Alderman Anderson, W. A. Bither, Francis Brady, Adolph Marks, Oscar DePriest, Edward H. Wright, Morris Lewis, Adelbert H. Roberts, Charles A. Griffin, James A. Scott and many others.

Congressman Madden "gave account of his stewardship" and in his characteristic way recounted the work of the present United States Congress. The congressman also congratulated the district on the fact that they had sent to Congress the man who is now chairman of the House appropriations committee. Senator Ettelson was called upon, pledged his every endeavor for the second ward organization which he recognized as responsible for his elevation politically. Col. Bither, Mr. Roberts and Alderman Anderson also spoke.

At about three o'clock the congressman found himself whirled in an automobile to the Pilgrim Baptist Church, where he spoke to a large audience. Alderman DePriest, who was in charge of the congressman, then piloted him to a reception by the Chicago Branch, N. A. A. C. P., held in the parlors of the Railroad Men's Club, 3441 Wabash Avenue, where a most impressive testimonial was accorded Mr. Madden. Morris Lewis presided and introduced Mrs. Bush Banks, acting executive secretary of the Chicago Branch, N. A. A. C. P., who, in most beautiful fashion, spoke the appreciative sentiment of the branch for the work Mr. Madden had done in support of the passage of the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, closing her excellent remarks by presenting to this champion of human liberty a handsome silk umbrella. Accompanied as is Mr. Madden to speaking before the great national congress, vast audiences and amidst diversified surroundings, he was at this moment overcome. Speechless with the emotion that was surging within him it was some moments and accompanied with tears before his response was audible to the breathless, waiting audience of officers and members of the association assembled. Mr. Madden expressed his deep realization of the honor paid him which he questioned as being wholly deserved, for he said he had but done his duty and was entitled to no credit for having the courage of his convictions. The brief function was brought to a close, those present following Congressman Madden and Mr. DePriest in partaking of light refreshments and having the hand of fellowship from all those present. Mr. Madden is a member of the Chicago Branch, N. A. A. C. P., in "good and regular standing."

A large audience assembled in the evening at the service of the Community Center at Wendell Phillips High School, Rev. W. D. Cook, pastor; Mr. Harvey A. Watkins, president of the Sunday Evening Club, presiding; the principal speaker again being Congressman Madden. The usual excellent music was furnished by Prof. J. Wesley Jones and his choir. On the arrival of the speakers' party, the following were seated on the platform: Congressman Madden, State Representative Roberts, Edward H. Wright, Sandy Trice, Charles A. Griffin, Morris Lewis, Julius F. Taylor (T. L. Prattis).

Mr. Madden spoke at length of the progress of the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill to its successful passage, recounting the valiant work done by James Weldon Johnson, secretary of the N. A. A. C. P. He sounded a warning that the work was not finished and that some more fighting would be necessary in the senate. Which reminds the voters of this district that pressure should be brought to bear on the senior and junior senators from Illinois, asking their support of the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill. Congressman Madden was presented in a very fine speech by Mr. Edward H. Wright.

Again the chauffeur stepped on the self-starter in the magnificent limousine conveying the congressman's party, and away the machine rolled for the last event of the day. By the time the party reached the Appomattox Club, around 9:30 P. M., the magnificent parlors of the club were filled with the representative men of the city who belong to the organization. Here another magnificent staging was set. Amidst great applause the speakers' party entered: Congressman Madden, Edward H. Wright, S. A. T. Watkins, Alderman DePriest, Alderman Jackson, Alderman Anderson, Anderson, David B. Hawley, Charles L. Duke and Dr. Carl G. Roberts, the latter of whom acted as master of ceremonies and well did his part. After appropriate remarks by Dr. Roberts in opening the meeting, President Watkins was called upon, after which Mr. Wright, first president of the club, responded, followed by the real introduction of the congressman by Mr. Oscar DePriest. Mr. Madden, not at all weary after his strenuous day among his constituents, was in a very happy frame of mind and quite mindful of the economies that were thrust upon him, all of which he carried with easy grace. Realizing he was addressing the colored men of Chicago who "do things," the congressman directed his words along lines of constructive labor in support of legislation destined to relieve injustice and inhumanity, again calling attention, as he had on other occasions, to the fact that the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill had still another hurdle to make.

After the close of his speech Mr. Madden was once more the recipient of the hand of fellowship from his faithful colored followers, believers and supporters of Illinois—for they were there from all over, even as far away as Blue Island and Evanston. Among those prominent at the Appomattox Club meeting were: Morris Lewis, Julius F. Taylor, T. L. Prattis, James Woodard, James W. Camp, Joe B. Crum, Nathan Caldwell, Abe Jones, Dr. George Thornton, Frank S. Stephens, Charles Morrison, J. N. Blackshear, F. V. Babb, John Oglesby, J. Gray Lucas, Dr. Robert H. Hardin, Hon. James G. Cotter, and others.
